Best intro ever the office song

Goliard SongsLatin songs written from the 10th to the 13th century. They are among the first examples of Western secular music. They were created by wandering scholars called goliards. The goliard songs praise the beauty of nature and the pleasures of love, drinking and life of the students. Many satirize the church and society. The composer of the twentieth century Carl Orff based his Carmina Burana (1937) on a collection of goliard songs of the thirteenth century. The song doesn't even have to be a musical masterpiece. In fact, in some cases, the song is really terrible, but you still can't resist the urge to sing, regardless of the bad quality. If the melody is unbeatable or haunting, some melodies simply force you to play them on a repetitive loop. Here are 30 of the most infectious songs you can't get out of your head. See if you can break the spell! The success of Lil Nas X "Old Town Road" was underiably one of the biggest hits of 2019. He quickly gained popularity through the emerging rapper released the song independently, he soon recorded a remix with country star Billy Ray Cyrus who climbed to the top of the charts. Photo courtesy: Paras Griffin/Getty Images The bop country also featured an extravagant music video for the remix featuring guest appearances by Chris Rock, Rico Nasty, Vince Staples and more. No matter how you feel about the song you can't help but wrap the addict chorus on top of your lungs. This next eye-catching track comes from the late 90s, just before the start of the new millennium, when exposed midriffs, low-growth jeans and pop music ruled supreme. The growing pop princess of this age? The one and only Britney Spears. "...Baby One More Time" was the singer's debut single, and eventually became one of the best-selling singles of all time with over 10 million copies sold. Photo courtesy: Steve Granitz/Wire Images/Getty Not only was the song a hit that caught quickly, but the accompanying music video featured Spears dressed as a Catholic school girl dancing around, who raised some eyebrows. However, it is one of the most iconic videos of pop music. From the moment you hear, "This blow, that ice cold... Michelle Pfeiffer, that white gold, you can't help but join up and sing "Uptown Funk." Written by record producer Mark Ronson for his fourth studio album, Uptown The song features Bruno Mars and his band, The Hooligans. Inspired by the funk music of the 80s, the animated and unbeatable track had a heavy bass and infectious lyrics that instantly made its mark on pop culture.
