We are always working to get the most accurate information. Let us know if you meet everything that is obsolete! A new player enters the Spanish food scene in Singapore at Tapas Club, conveniently located on the second floor of central Fruttellista. It aims to spread the idea of authentic Spanish cuisine at affordable prices. The dishes of the restaurant are perfect for sharing between a small group; But it gets agitated, you can always order more dishes to go around if you are going to a larger group. The interior of the restaurant was tastefully decorated with food quotations, as well as landscape images in Spain. We started with The Pan With Aceite Y Vinagre ($5), which is the homemade toast accompanied by olive oil and balsamic vinegar. Somesomesomething special about balsamic vinegar was that it was made of mini vinegar pearls, using Agar-Agar. The tiny explosion of balsamic vinegar while chewing was a nice surprise. Your next dish was the Gambas al Ajillo ($ 12.90), which was shrimp, sautéed with garlic and parsley. The shrimps were cooked perfectly, and together with the incredibly flavored sauce? We say that this dish is a must order while at the tapas club.do is not afraid to vigorously immerse the sliced bread in the sauce and then devour it later, they promise that we will love it. The Chipirones with Huevo Orto ($ 12.90), which is the squid of the fried child with fried egg. The chefs recommended to cut the egg and mix it together with the squid. The crispy squid has completed the fried egg slightly runny. While this dish was slightly salty, I thought it would go well with a glass of beer. The Ambar beer ($8.50, 400 ml) was light and foamy, but my favorite was definitely the Ambar raddler ($5.50). Lemon torsion provided a refreshing beer taste and made it extremely easy to drink. For those who love a fruity beer, you have to try the radler.Did you think we stopped? Of course not! The cabal with Calabaza ($ 12.90) was the Spanish mackerel with pumpkin. The freshness of the fish, the sweetness of the pumpkin and the tart of the grapefruit was a feast of flavors in my mouth.tapas club also offers tapas +, which offers a free side. We had the Pluma de Cerdo ($ 15), or pork shoulder Ibérico Rico of Char-grigliata served with grilled smoked vegetables. The pig was tender, juicy and fat quite I like. The Carrillera de Ternera with Idiazabal ($ 12.90) was a Pleacista crowd at "The dishes were the beef cheeks in red wine sauce, served with idiazabal cheese cream. Total hours, beef cheeks were extremely juicy. Beef lovers must definitely try this dish if you will not drop it. Our last main was the nigra fideua ($25), which was the paella of ink noodles squid with cuttlefish and aioli.with the traditional fideua paste, the thin noodle was able to absorb the flavors of the squid ink sauce. This dish might seem scary at first, but the flavors have absolutely conquered me conquered Deep seafood flavors were infused into the pasta, and coupled with the slightly charred bits from the bottom of the pan. This was also one of my favorites! At this point, I was pretty full, but you know everyone has a second stomach for dessert. Churros Con Chocolate ($8) is the classic churros served with chocolate sauce. The churro was light, soft with the right amount of crunch. Psst, did you know traditionally, Spanish food for breakfast? Last but not least, we had the Catalan Cream With Sorbet ($10), which was custard caramelized cream with Oreo crumbs and mandarin sorbet. I recommend digging the sorbet quickly before everything melts! We foresee this place to be an informal Spanish lunch concept located in the heart of the city. If you're looking for Spanish tapas and a good beer, hit this place with your amigos!
