Dear Harvard,

Congratulations! I am pleased to inform you that I, Malia Obama, have accepted you, Harvard University, as a college I might attend beginning Fall 2016. You can take pride in this accomplishment since you were selected from a number of extremely competitive institutions, all of which were very well-equipped to educate me.

My high school academic record is excellent, as well as my test scores which are, frankly, off the charts, and it is with great pleasure that I inform you that if I do attend your institution, I won't need a scholarship or combination of scholarships, because I am a millionaire and the daughter of the President of America. Additionally, I am happy to say that between my impeccable grades and outstanding pedigree, I will be driving up donations to your annual fund by 23%, if and when I choose to attend.

To finalize my acceptance of Harvard as my college, I'll be sending the following items, all of which, I think we both know, are merely a formality since, I mean...come on.

1. My non-refundable deposit of $200, which is "due" by May, 2016, though I have a feeling that if I miss the deadline—you know, because maybe it slips my mind while I'm having dinner with Angela Merkel—Harvard will make an exception.
2. An official high school transcript demonstrating that I didn't just fuck around and smoke pot during second semester, not that I even get to try pot before you-know-who leaves office.
3. An official transcript of any college courses I take for credit. Not sure how I'll get a transcript from the State Department that says "sat in the war room during strategy meetings and managed to study for her French AP and get a 5" but I'll try.
4. Verification of lawful presence in the U.S.—I guess a birth certificate would work here? LOL.

A supplemental document called Important Information for Any University That Malia Obama Chooses is enclosed and I recommend you review it carefully. It has pertinent information on how not to be total fucking weirdos with my Secret Service agents.

On behalf of myself, the White House staff, and of course, my dad, President Barack Obama, welcome to maybe being my university.

Sincerely,

Malia Obama
Exemplary Applicant and Daughter of the President

Yale will accept one of these applications, without preference for one on the other. Students should submit one - and only one application for admission cycle. Additional requirements for all first year candidates: $ 80 application fees or renunciation recommendations paid by two teachers and a school report of a consultant with the results of the standardized transcription test (act or satellite) if not required for autumn entry 2021 or 2022. See below. Half-age ratio (due to when the first semester/term are available at school) see more details about these application components required below. Additional information $ 80 application fees or fee waiver candidates should pay the $80 registration fee through the common application or the coalition application website. Questbridge application is free, but only students named questbridge finalists can be applied to Yale with the questbridge application. Applicants using the common application or application of the coalition may request that the enrollment commission be waived. If you feel that your university application and financial aid application fees have a serious difficulty for your family, do not hesitate to request a waiver of payment. You do not need to send support documentation unless you have been specifically asked to do so. To learn more about the tax renunciation page »Recommendations from two academic teachers and a consultant require recommendations from two teachers who taught you in academic raw materials (e.g. English, foreign language, mathematics, science, social studies) that you know well, and who has seen you at your best. is preferable, but not required, that the recommendations come from the teachers who taught you during your junior or senior in high school. The letters from these teachers are usually the most enlightening. Yale does not encourage additional recommendations. Those considering an additional recommendation should first read additional materials, extra recommendations. Also require a recommendation from educational consultant. If your advisor does not know you well, the recommendation may still provide useful contextual information about your school and its academic programs. If your school does not have someone who serves as an academic advisor, please request a recommendation from a school administrator. Watch The admission give advice agents on the recommendations A "school report with the transcript Your counselor or other school official should present an educational relationship with an official transcript that includes all of your secondary school courses, including all courses completed at an earlier school secondary or college. If the courses taken in other secondary schools or colleges do not appear on your current official transcript of secondary school, please request official transcripts from those institutions directly. The recommendations and transcripts must be submitted electronically through the joint enforcement or to the website of the coalition. For the finalists, recommendations and Questbridge transcripts are automatically forwarded to Yale with QuestBridge application. If necessary, teachers and counselors may also send their recommendations and transcripts by mail or digital loading. The recommendations may be sent before or after submitting the application. The materials that come before the application will be kept on file. The office Admissions will make reasonable allowances for school records in situations in situations where it is not possible for teachers and counselors to meet application deadlines. Read Yale tips on selecting high school courses A Standardized test results in response to widespread disruptions caused by the pandemic Covid-19, the Yale Office of undergraduate admissions, has temporarily suspended the requirement that First year candidates involve results from acting or sitting during admission cycles of 2020-21 and 2021-22 (classes of 2025 and 2026). Candidates who are unable to complete an exam or choose not to report the exam They will not be disadvantaged. The candidates of the first year during these cycles can present the ACT or SAT scores or not with their application. More information on Yale test policies are available on the standardized test page. Standardized tests are only one of the components of a student's application and are displayed in the context of the entire student file. No minimum score is required for admission, nor is a score that guarantees the admission That they have not yet completed the secondary school must present a month relationship with the official votes of the first evaluation of the ongoing academic year, as soon as such votes will be available. A school consultant or an official must present the votes directly to Yale, online via the Common Application or the Application Coalition, or by e-mail or digital sending. Yale is one of the most competitive schools on the planet in which to enter. If you're wondering how to make your application stand out from the crowd, you're in the right place. In this article we will examine everything that is to know about how to enter Yale, including the difficulty of entering Yale, what seeks in his students, such as scores and notes, and how to overcome your Yale candidacy essays. How difficult is it to enter Yale? Yale is extremely selective: it welcomes less than 6.5% of candidates every year. This means that less than 7 students out of 100 enter Yale. To be competitive as a candidate, you will have to have almost perfect degrees, excellent scores of tests, and essays. Standout. What do you look for Yale in candidates? Yale wrote a whole essay on what he seeks in his students. Although the post does not enter many specific details, it offers some useful charges of wisdom regarding what the admission committee considers when Applications: Academic Capacities: Yale wants his own Be the highest of the academic world. The school puts a lot of emphasis on your transcript, so you will have to get excellent votes consistently. Your teachers will also talk about your academic capacities. Your recommendation letters should show that you are a worker and curious academically. Who you are outside the school: you have to write many essays for Yale. Use your essays as an opportunity to paint a vivid portrait of yourself, going beyond your academic results. Highlight your interests and paint yourself as a real person, not just a collection of numbers. What to do with the resources of Yale: Yale wants students who exploit his numerous resources. Your application should prove that you are ready to face the challenges and knock your opportunities when you see them. Yale does not seek self-combination, looking for students who take advantage of every moment of their campus. Surprising tips: while your transcriptions provide quantitative information about your academic ability, your recommendation letters provide qualitative information. Yale will rely on the letters of your teachers to highlight who you are as a student. Teachers often write about things a simple à à à à € "on a row you can't convey, like your spirit or sense of humor when you respond to different challenges. Can you apply for Yale Early? Yale offers both regular deadlines for the presentation of candidacies and advance deadlines the deadline for early action is November 1 and you will receive your admission decision by half of December 15th. Yale's early action program includes a single choice, which means that it is possible to register in advance to a single school (Yale), but your acceptance is not binding. Statistically speaking, you have a slightly greater probability of entering Yale with the premature action plan compared to one regular, but the difference is not significant. If Yale isn't your first choice, we don't recommend applying early action because you won't be able to apply, somewhere else. Yale Application Deadline and Requirings You can apply to Yale using the common application, the COALITION Application, or the Quest Bridge application. You must write at least two essays and answer questions to short response, regardless of the application system you use. For an essay, you can choose between two request messages. You will also need to present three letters of recommendation. And if you are an engineering student, you will have to present another essay! B- Yale normally requires sending SAT or ACT scores (optional for students requesting admission in autumn 2022). The ESSAY section on both exams is optional. Finally, there is no need to have completed any specific course at school. Here is a list at the latest requirements of Yale: The App Coalition with specific questions of Yale and Media Upload, or Municipal App with specific questions of Yale, or QuestionBridge Application with the Yale Quest Bridge questionnaire $ 80 Application Fee or exemption From taxes two teacher recommendations A consultant school council recommendation (including transcription) Standardized test results (SAT or ACT) * Metà year ratio (at the end of semester / higher duration are available at your school) * Like many schools, Yale He did the optional test this year. Find out which other schools do not require SAT / ACT scores due to COVID-19. What should I do to enter Yale? You must be at the top of your class, in a GPA sense, to be accepted to Yale. The average average medium of candidates admitted to Yale is 4.12. This means that you need a "A" to be able to be competitive with other candidates. In fact, 94% of the admitted students graduated from high 10% of their class. You will also have to take AP and / or IB courses, both to increase your average and to show that you are able to manage university level courses with ease. What test scores I owe And Yale? It shouldn't come as a surprise, but you'll need extremely high scores, be considered seriously as a Yale applicant. The average SAT score of candidates admitted to Yale is 1505 (which is around 1510). This is reduced to 745-755 on the Math section and 750-760 on the Test-based Reading and Writing section. In other words, you will need a perfect score to consider. Yale requires you to send all your SAT/ACT scores, but the admission committee is able to look at the highest score of a student officially reported on each section of the SAT/ACT. If you don't have a 1510+ on the SAT, you must seriously consider the test to get as close to that score as possible. Make a plan, commit to studying and working hard. The average ACT score of candidates admitted to Yale is 34—which is slightly less competitive than the average SAT scores. That said, 34 is still high and if you have less than 32 on the ATC, you should consider taking the exam. Note: Due to COVID-19, Yale went test-optional for students applying during the admission cycle 2021-2022. As we explain more in detail in our article on schools that do not require SAT/ACT because of COVID-19, this is probably just a temporary change for highly selective schools like Yale. If you already have a high SAT/ACT score (as defined above), then you should go ahead and send it; However, if not, it is necessary to weigh if trying to take (or resume) the SAT or ACT is worth the risk and cost of health. Examples of application Yale Yale requires all its candidates to answer some combination of two specific questions of the essay, plus the well-known essay "Why Yale?". The first request you will be asked to answer is the question "Why Yale?" wise. This question is required of all candidates - it is not optional. In 125 words or not, you will answer the following question: What is it about YaleDid it lead you to apply? In addition to the question "Why Yale?", everyone applies to Yale through the Common App or the Coalition Coalition App Answer this question: Yale's wide range of courses and lively conversations outside the classroom encourage students to follow their emerging intellectual interests wherever they lead. Tell us about your commitment with a topic or an idea that excites you. Why are you attracted to it? All candidates must also choose one of the two prompts to respond, regardless of whether they are running through the common App or the Coalition App: App:
